

Snake Talk - 1

Learning Intentions

Students describe changes in their local environment and how different places meet the needs of living things.

Daradgee Specific Elaborations

This experience may require students to:

- recognise common features of snakes such as head, tongue, heat pits, skin
- describe the use of body parts for particular purposes such as feeding and sensing
- recognise that different snakes live in different places
- engage in whole class or discussions to share observations, ideas and what was discovered
